Today's wardens rely on people skills

By ALISON ALOISIO

Game warden Norm Lewis walked up to two hunters sitting in a pickup truck.

"Any luck? See anything at all?" he asked.

"Saw a couple of deer. Nothing to shoot at," came the reply.

Lewis exchanged a few more words with the men, then checked their hunting licenses. Satisfied, he wished them a good day and climbed back into his pickup truck.

"They're O.K., relaxed. It's hard for someone to do anything wrong and not show any kind of stress," he said.

Making the rounds

It was dreary and rainy last Thursday morning—a day for the diehard hunter only. Still, Lewis was out checking his territory near the New Hampshire border.

Driving slowly along a dirt road just over the state line, he met a pickup truck with New Hampshire plates. The driver flagged him down.

"Looks like somebody gutted a deer next to the road back there," the man said.

"That right?" said Lewis. They talked for a few minutes. The man described how he had shot a bear in New Hampshire recently, and then realized he had failed to get a $3 permit for it.

"They (N.H. wardens) were good about it. They could have fined me $240, but they only fined me $60," he said. He said he was embarrassed about forgetting the permit. "But ignorance of the law is no excuse," he added.

"It can be tough to keep the laws straight sometimes," Lewis said. The men parted with a wave of the hand.

Lewis drove on for a bit, then turned onto a logging road by a brook. "I was up here last weekend (during the heavy rain) to warn some hunters in a camp that they needed to get out, or they might not make it back through the brook," he said. "When I got to the camp, there was no one there. I thought about going up farther, but then I decided I might not get out myself. By the time I got back to the brook, it was washed out. I had to put it in four-wheel drive to get through."

He said the hunters were stranded for a time, until the water receded.

Now, Lewis was headed back to the camp to check the activities of any new occupants.

The road had washed out in places, making it a rougher ride than usual.

"The washed-out roads will keep hunters out of some places this year. It will give the deer in those areas a break," Lewis said.

He said he had heard that some of the rain damage in the area was the worst in decades.

After several miles of bouncing and bumping, Lewis rounded a curve and saw a pickup truck. It was parked near the hunting camp.

Lewis looked up toward the camp. "Smoke coming out of the chimney. But they might be out hunting -- no lights on," he said.

He parked the truck and knocked on the door. An older man answered, and they talked for about ten minutes.

Lewis returned to the truck and said there were two men in the camp. "They aren't even going out today. I introduced myself to them," he said.

Lewis is new on patrol in this part of western Maine, so he's just getting to know some of the sportsmen in the area. But he had met a previous occupant of the camp while out on patrol with his predecessor, Gayland Brackett.

"He (Brackett) summoned him for not wearing enough orange," Lewis said.

He said people's reactions to a summons varies widely.

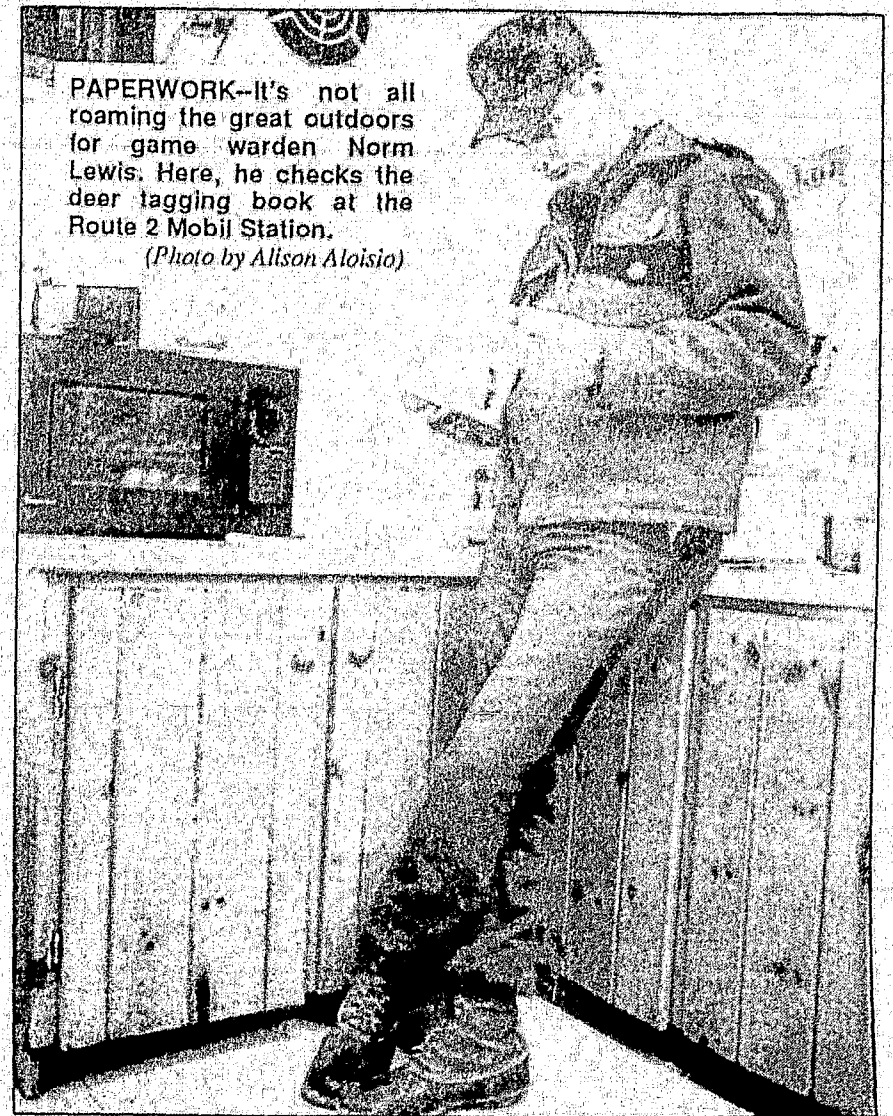

"Some people who were friendly with me before the summons, aren't anymore. Others that weren't friendly before it, are now. There's one guy who became one of my biggest fans after I gave him a summons," he said.

Righting what's wrong

On the long ride back out from the camp, Lewis talked about why he became a game warden seven years ago.

"Have you ever seen someone do something wrong and wish you could do something about it? Well, I can," he said.

If you're traveling by foot, will you really be able to get to Bethel Station from here?

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Federal budget cuts could end up severing a major link between Bethel village and Bethel Station.

The Federal Economic Development Agency has asked the town to identify a 10 percent reduction in a proposed $1,500,750 grant.

The grant is to be used to finance infrastructure improvements associated with the Bethel Station development, and at a preliminary meeting last week representatives of the town, the Bethel Water District and Bethel Station identified the railroad crossing at Mechanic Street as the component of the project they would like to fund.

In a memo to the Board of Selectmen, Town Manager Madeline Henley described the railroad crossing as "the most painful savings" of $150,000.

But at Monday evening's selectmen's meeting, she also acknowledged that "to potentially lose the Mechanic Street crossing is a blow to our efforts to keep the village and Bethel Station unified."

Bob Chadbourne agreed. "I'd hate to see the project divorced from the village," he said.

The project may not be permanently lost, Henley said that it bids for the rest of the infrastructure work come in low enough, the railroad crossing could still be included. Or it could be built during a later phase of the project, she said.

The selectmen also questioned how much of a responsibility the developers had for financing such improvements when grant money was not available.

The town had agreed to apply for grants, they noted, and a great deal of money had in fact been obtained. But at some point, they argued, the developers were obliged by their agreements to make up the money.

They also questioned whether the railroad crossing was the best cut from the town's point of view. It might make more sense, they said, to look at potential cuts within the project area itself.

"I think we can prioritize the expenditure of grant money we've applied for," Dutch Dresser said.

The selectmen eventually instructed Henley to meet with the town's engineer and attempt to identify an alternative for shaving $150,000 from the project.

She said Tuesday that they would begin looking at work further out on the Mechanic Street extension.

Such a cut would be in the heart of the project area, she said -- and thus be more likely to be something the developers would eventually be willing to pay for.

Limited pedestrian access

When the Bethel Station project was proposed, pedestrian access from the village was a selling point stressed by the developers, and two access points from Railroad Street were included.

If the railroad crossing is lost, it will be the second of those two

But however you get there, Norway bank hopes to be there

By MICHAEL DANIELS

You probably won't want to walk there while you're doing your other in-town errands (as you can to the two banks in Bethel village), but by this time next year area residents could have a new banking option, in Bethel Station.

The Norway Savings Bank has filed an application with the Federal Deposit Insurance Company to locate a branch in the Bethel Station development.

The FDIC had earlier approved another site in Bethel, according to Peter Montpelier, president of the Norway-based mutual savings bank. But the bank eventually changed its mind about the initial site (where Marha's Restaurant was located) and began discussion with the developers of Bethel Station.

There is no design yet for the new branch, Montpelier said, "but we signed a memorandum of agreement to work on the details."

According to developer Heinie Merrill, the branch would probably be located in a 1,200-square-foot professional building at the corner of Lincoln Street and the Parkway.

Merrill said plans call for having the new building ready by the end of next summer.

The new Norway Savings Bank branch would offer residential and commercial banking services, Montpelier said.

The Norway Savings Bank has approximately $270 million in assets and currently operates six locations in Western Maine.

Upton won't appeal loss in bus suit

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Upton School Committee voted last week not to appeal a court judgment that found Robert Dapolito entitled to damages for breach of a school-transportation contract. The amount of the settlement in the case, though, remains in question.

Dapolito had filed a lawsuit against the selectmen and school committee asking for $7,500 in damages, according to SAD44 Supt. Ron Jenkins, Upton's school agent.

The suit resulted from a vote in 1994, when the committee accepted Dapolito's bid of $17,796 to transport Upton students to SAD44 for the 1994-95 school year. But at a special meeting on March 24, the committee rescinded the acceptance. They then put the job back out to bid.

Jenkins said no contract was signed, and therefore the committee contended that there was no contract.

But early last month, according to selectman Clayton Thompson, Judge John Sheldon of Rumford District Court ruled that a contract had effectively resulted from the committee's vote to accept the bid.

Sheldon then directed that a hearing on the amount of damages be scheduled.

The school committee last week voted not to appeal the case.

"They voted to recommend to the selectmen that a settlement be negotiated, preferably at a lesser amount

Informational meeting next week on Jordan Bowl hotel but few details are available

By ALISON ALOISIO

Sunday River Ski Resort is taking steps toward building a 300-room hotel in Jordan Bowl. There is no timeline yet for the project, according to a spokesman, but a public informational meeting will be held on Nov. 13.

A public notice regarding the meeting states that the skiway will file for a site location permit from DEP on Nov. 14, and that "some additional roads and parking will be necessary to gain access to the building."

Skiway spokesman Skip King said there are currently no architectural drawings of the hotel, and no date has been set for its construction.

VOTING RESULTS

The Citizen goes to press on Tuesday afternoon, well before polls close.

Next week's edition will carry complete local election results, or readers can find them today in the Western Maine Edition of our daily affiliate, The Sun-Journal/Sunday.

He did say that if any road is to be built to the Jordan Bowl area, the skiway "is probably going to use the route approved by the town" -- via the Monkey Brook Road.

King said Sunday River has reached a settlement with property owner Ralph Harrington regarding use of a right of way on his land.

The meeting will be at 7 p.m. at the Summit Hotel.

Traffic signal still in limbo

In another Sunday River access development, the Maine Department of Transportation recommended to selectmen last week that the town and/or Sunday River Skiway take responsibility for the construction of the town's new traffic light.

Town administrative assistant Sylvia Gray said selectmen received a letter saying the town or skiway should hire a traffic engineer to design the traffic signal, and hire a contractor to build it. The letter also said that MDOT will not maintain or operate the signal.

THOUGHTS ON MADELEINE GIBBS

To the Editor:

The passing of Madeleine Gibbs should not go unnoticed, as she was one who had an influence upon those who came to know her through her teaching and role in the community. I never had her as a teacher at Gould, but got to know her through a donation I made of a box of history textbooks to the Telstar Library, where she worked as librarian. My name had come to her attention as I was one who had fought to keep Desmond Morris' classic study, "The Naked Ape," in the school curriculum, against the wishes of certain Christian fundamentalists who believed the work was pornographic. We discussed book censorship in schools and readily agreed that it was unfortunate that such a distinguished work of social science could be seen in the remotest way as titillatingly sexual. From then on, we had wide ranging discussions every time I saw her in the grocery store, on the street, at school gatherings, etc. It was always a great pleasure to see her as she was lively and well-informed.

When she found out I was a Republican that brought even more discussion, as she was a strong Democrat. How she laughed when she told the story of her chagrin in having to sign the voter enrollment book in her native Blue Hill while a student at Colby with all the other Democrats who were considered "paupers and neer-do-wells" in that heavily Republican town. She confessed having voted for Nixon, however, and when Wagoner developed we often discussed "that man," whom neither of us liked.

Through the years our discussions continued. It was always fun to see Madeleine and get her views on many subjects. We frequently talked of mutual friends in Blue Hill and she often provided insights into their backgrounds and attitudes.

The last time I talked with her the sparkle was gone. She was still well-informed but just a shell of what she always had been. I felt incredibly sad at seeing her in this condition.

She was fortunate in having such a caring family to see her through to the end. She had evidently given them much and they returned it in abundance. That is the way all stories should end. I am glad it happened with Madeleine as she was one of my favorite people and I missed her very best.

BOOSTERS NEED A BOOST

To the Editor:

Telstar Athletic and Track Boosters organization is in desperate need of members. We are a total of four people and cannot do fundraising effectively. In the past the fundraising has helped the Athletic Department by buying various equipment. Discounts have been constructed and an area for new fields or possibly a track has been cleared.

In order to accomplish the completion of the track and dugouts for the football field, we are going to need more members to attend our meetings. We meet once a month at TRHS.

The only major fundraiser we have been doing is the concession stand at basketball games. We need people to help on this in December, January, and February.

If we do not have a good showing at our Nov. 15 meeting at 7 p.m., we may have to rethink.

It would be too bad to disband, because our organization had done a lot for athletics and the school needs a track for the students. The community would also benefit from a new track.

Please join us on Wednesday, Nov. 15 at the Telstar Library at 7 p.m. We need your help.

SAFER FAMILIES THANKS

To the Editor:

The Sunday River Brewing Co. sponsored a second annual pumpkin carving contest as a benefit for the Safer Families Program. The event was held Sunday, Oct. 29, 1995 and thirty entrants cut pumpkins, painted faces and both did for apples.

The day was a great success and many people need to be publicly acknowledged for their enthusiastic participation.

Mr. Ginter volunteered a great deal of energy and time with her artwork and organizing. Carol Hughes of Pook Corner Farm set up a beautiful harvest display on the deck.

Ken Irons painted great faces. Todd Conant, chef, made great snacks for everyone. Carole Mason and her staff particularly deserve a thank you for being so efficient and cooperative.

Prizes were donated by Keenan Co., Proh Co. Pharmacy, Pook Corner Farms, Vine and Cupboard, Wild Rose, The Toy Store, Dancing Moon, Sunday River Brewing Co., Subway and The Bookstore.

Judging was done by Dr. and Mrs. Kevin Finley and Dr. Gary Street. Thank you all for your commitment to Safer Families and your enthusiastic help.

A special thank you to Hans Trapp for sponsoring the contest. This was his original idea and Safer Families thanks him for his continued support.

And a final thank you to Jen York and friend Vanessa. We truly appreciate you all for your response to Safer Families.

YOU CAN'T JAM YOUR RELIGION DOWN OUR THROATS

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the three religiously charged letters that appeared in last week's Citizen, urging for yes votes on Question No. 1. Although I realize that my letter can only be published the day after the vote, I am still writing, because the letters from Rev. John W. Grant, Roland M. Lord, and Linwood Hanson raise issues that must be addressed, regardless of whether the proponents of yes or no won yesterday.

The first issue is that of choice and behavior. Rev. Grant writes that voting yes "will prevent the granting of special rights and privileges to any group of people based solely on their behavior." Mr. Lord echoes this sentiment: "The 11 categories stated in the amendment on your ballot, such as race, color, sex, national origin, etc., are unchangeable." Unfortunately for these gentlemen's arguments, three of the classifications that Mr. Lord conveniently omits from his list of currently protected peoples are, at least partially, changeable areas of choice and behavior, namely: familial status, marital status, and -- most glaringly -- religion. Throughout our adult lives, we all choose (whether we acknowledge the choices or not) to behave in ways that cause us to become parents or to remain childless; to marry or to remain single; to accept or to reject the many religions we may encounter.

This simply is not so in the case of homosexuality. These three gentlemen have difficulty seeing this, because they have failed to distinguish between conditions and actions. Mr. Lord states flatly: "As I understand the word 'gay' it refers to those who practice sodomy." Well, Mr. Lord, you obviously misunderstand the word. The word "sodomy" refers to those who practice sodomy, an act; the word "homosexual" refers to those who are sexually attracted to people of their own sex, a condition. A homosexual is no more required to practice sodomy, or any other sexual act, than is a heterosexual. In fact, it may interest and alarm these gentlemen to consider that some homosexuals are doubtlessly living lives of celibacy after great personal anguish, soul searching, and prayer, perhaps even as members of these gentlemen's churches.

Most people have come to accept that each of us discovers our sexual orientation in the process of growing up, just as we discover our gender and color, thrust upon us along with all the baggage society attaches to them, unchosen. Even after our discovery we are helpless to change our condition. My understanding of the Bible is that it speaks a great deal about the human condition and the temptations of the flesh, and that rather than asking us to deny the reality of these temptations, it asks us instead to refrain from acting upon them. And while Mr. Lord and Mr. Hanson have both taken the time to show us which sections of the Bible forbid and condemn sodomy, I doubt that they can find a place where it forbids the condition of homosexuality.

Which brings me to my final, emphatic point: I don't even care if they can show me, because I don't happen to be a member of their religion, and I don't particularly care if other adults are consensually and privately sodomizing each other, but I am on the other hand offended by people who audaciously hold up their own particular religious doctrine as reason enough to enact legislation that must govern citizens of all religions. Mr. Lord wrote that he thought "The problem is men want to change the word of God to adjust to their own preferences." I think the problem is really that some people think that their beliefs and convictions concerning God are somehow better than mine, and that I cannot even be left to mine, because they feel compelled to use our state laws as a stick to ram their religion down my throat.

I do believe that, as citizens in a democracy, we must encourage each other to share our ideas and vote with our conscience. I also believe that, if we allow people to hold up their religion's scriptures as a guideline for legislation, we are taking a small but dangerous step in the direction of creating a universal religion not by revelation or personal choice, but by law.

GOD DOES NOT HATE PERVERTS

To the Editor:

In the Nov. 1, 1995 edition of your newspaper you printed a letter I composed concerning Referendum Question No. 1. The title, "God Hates Perverts," you gave to the letter is totally wrong. It was not an accurate title of the content. You failed to understand that "perversion" is a behavior and "perverts" means people. God hates any behavior that violates His commandments. Sexual perversion is only one of the many sins He hates.

God hates sin, but He loves the sinner. We are all sinners and He loved us enough to give His Son to die on the cross to pay for our sins. That includes all the sins you can list, including sodomy. He loves the gays just as much as He loves everyone else. That's the message in John 3:16: "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

I doubt if any of your readers think I preach that God hates any group of people. It did seem reasonable that I should set the record straight.

Linwood Hanson
Bryant Pond

Editor replies: With all due respect to the sincerity of Pastor Hanson's convictions, we find this gloss on his earlier letter to be less than convincing.

That God hates sin but not the sinner is a simple enough distinction. We recall Sister Mary Magdalene stressing the point back in the fifth grade. (But to be fair to all the good sisters at St. Edward's, they would not have employed the word "hate" -- they would rather have said that God sorrowed over the sin but still loved the sinner. And this long before Vatican II.)

The sin-sinner, or act-doer, distinction is well established and often useful (good parents employ it when disciplining children). But there are situations where such distinctions are spurious, where they slide too handily into distinctions without a difference -- usually to mask some unpleasant reality.

Let's look again at what Pastor Hanson wrote and see whether the distinction seems germane: He wrote of hatred (and made no mention of love), and he illustrated that hatred as follows: "God hated sexual perversion so much that He wiped Sodom and Gomorrah and surrounding towns from the face of the earth."

"Wiped ... from the face of the earth." (The phrases are themselves evasive -- presumably what happened was that tens of thousands of men, women and children were burned to death.)

You ran, of course, like this Sodom-and-Gomorrah stuff in a variety of ways: as historical fact, as moral metaphor, or as a psychological fantasy with uncanny appeal to certain types of minds. But whatever your take on the tale, you'd be hard pressed to convince residents of S&G (and especially of those unlucky "surrounding towns") that what they experienced was His love.

The God of Sodom and Gomorrah -- like most mere mortals when motivated by hate -- was not in the mood for Pastor Hanson's fine verbal distinctions.

In the journalism vineyard, one of our commandments is to attempt to seek out the reality behind abstractions. When reporting, or when writing headlines and titling letters, we toil from the premise that behind every "ion" word there is something more tangible, often a person.

To cite only the most obvious examples: the napalmed children behind "pacification," or six million slaughtered human beings behind the "final solution." And behind Pastor Hanson's "perversion"? Nothing more than individuals expressing their love or meeting other legitimate human needs in ways that he finds repugnant.

To some, of course, these human beings are merely "gooks," "Juden," "perverts" -- all "others" and not "us." This week Pastor Hanson blandly, if belatedly, assures us that his God loves all groups of people. But only last week he assured us that the hatred which led to the horror at Sodom and Gomorrah is timeless.

"Theological paradox"? Perhaps, but if so then it's far too subtle for us. We'd be more inclined to regard it as a convenient mask behind which the smirking face of bigotry hides.

Cant from the pulpit is nothing new; the history of religion is rife with hypocrisy. Fortunately, in this day and age it is generally harmless enough. Last week, however, the pastor chose to step down from the pulpit to address a secular issue, an issue that affects the lives of flesh-and-blood people living in what most of us choose to regard as the real world.

And as journalists in that real world, we have an obligation to cut through doubletalk when we detect it, thus the title placed on Pastor Hanson's earlier letter.

Moreover, having now had additional time to reflect on that letter, we are obliged to take the argument one step further: The Christian Right is fond of referring to all homosexuals as "sodomites." We must ask if both this perverse word choice and Pastor Hanson's use of the Sodom and Gomorrah story do not serve implicitly to condone the use of violence against homosexuals?

And as we saw this spring in Oklahoma City and only last week in Tel Aviv, such demonizing rhetoric is far from harmless.

We stand by the title selected for Pastor Hanson's earlier letter. We believe it captures the substance, subtlety and spirit of his message.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Shirren Vincent was the featured speaker at the November monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society held in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House last Thursday evening. She reported that she had spent the past year reading the diaries of Maud Farwell from the 1930s to the 1960s.

Mrs. Farwell was a well-known and respected Bethel woman, who was long a "fixture" in the Bethel Library. Her diaries, according to Mrs. Vincent, were a rich source for those interested in women's lives in small New England towns in the middle years of the 20th century. She cited instances where Mrs. Farwell noted changes in towns, reported on major events such as the flood of 1936, and recorded the everyday events of her busy life.

Prior to the program, president Charles Raymond announced that the next monthly meeting would feature the annual "Christmas with the Masons" on Dec. 7.

President Raymond introduced life member Briland Wentzell, who described the three years he spent making the logging model he presented to the society. Mr. Wentzell grew up on Mason Street within sight of the Dr. Moses Mason House. The president thanked Mr. Wentzell for this fine addition to the exhibits of the Dr. Moses Mason House.

Budgeters get Fire Dept. proposals

ANDOVER--Fire chief Ken Dixon Sunday submitted three proposals to the budget committee regarding the town's Engine 3, housed at the East Andover Fire Station. He also asked that the account for the purchase of a firetruck be reopened. The first two proposals on the current truck involved retrofitting it with a new water tank and back body with compartments. Under the third proposal the engine would be replaced with a used piece of equipment (1970 or newer, if possible). Dixon said he favors the third choice. He also said town officials should consider buying the East Andover Airport property as a potential site for a new fire station.

Harrington discusses resignation

GREENWOOD--Former SAD44 School Board member Ray Harrington said last week he resigned late last month out of frustration. The 11-year board veteran said there is no leadership on the board, within the schools, and in the administration. He said cuts made by the board this summer following a $500,000 budget reduction by voters should have come from staff salaries, rather than school programs. He said that when he first was on the board in 1984 the members worked together on problems, but now the members all have "different agendas." He said the board has lost sight of the target of educating young people, and it is time for new leadership.

Fair finishes in the black

PARIS--The Oxford County Fair finished "in the black" this year, according to an agricultural society official. Gail Smedberg said at a meeting last week that the fair earned enough money to pay for the construction of a new horse barn and renovations to the poultry and rabbit exhibit halls.

Register early for Trek

AUGUSTA--The 1996 Trek Across Maine -- Sunday River to the Sea will be June 14, 15, and 16. Interested parties should note that the application fee for the Trek is $30 until January 1, 1996, and $40 after that date. The advisory committee for the event has two new chairpersons -- trekkers Jill Stenger of Portland and Gail Schade of Hallowell. For more information, call 1-800-458-6472.

Wet October

CONCORD, N.H.--After a drought-like spring, New Hampshire is having a soggy fall. Rainfall statewide was over the 3.5-inch average for October, according to the Department of Environmental Services. The seacoast registered the least rainfall at 5 inches, and Mt. Washington the most at 20 inches. Officials have not yet determined if it was a record October. The standing record was measured in Concord in 1962 at 8.78 inches, according to the National Weather Service in Gray.

New N.H. office for National Forest

LACONIA, N.H.--The U.S. Forest Service is planning to build a new office in Lincoln, N.H., according to Chuck Myers, acting White Mountain National Forest supervisor. The new office will combine operations currently at the Ammonoosuc (in Bethel) and Pemigewasset (Plymouth) Ranger District offices, as well as the forest supervisor's headquarters in Laconia. It will house approximately 65 permanent employees. Myers said it will be several years before the office will be built.

Liberty Mutual to do workers' comp

AUGUSTA--Gov. Angus King last week announced the reentry of Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. into the Maine workers' compensation market. Maine's Bureau of Insurance recently issued a license to Liberty Mutual, giving the insurer authority to write workers' compensation insurance in the state. The company withdrew from writing the insurance in Maine in 1987. Insurance Supt. Brian Atchinson said, "In contrast to the turmoil in the late 80s when Liberty Mutual and other insurers were leaving the state, this recent move by Liberty indicates the increasing stability of Maine's system and further reinforces the growing perception that Maine has truly fixed its workers' compensation system."

Evictions possible in winter

AUGUSTA--There is no special law in Maine that prohibits landlords from evicting tenants during the winter, according to Maine State Housing Authority director David Lakari. "Every year our consumer assistance representative receives frantic calls from tenants who have been misinformed and think they cannot be evicted during the winter for such things as nonpayment of rent. They think there is a special law preventing winter evictions, but there is not," he said. Lakari said that often, low-income tenants pay other bills and not their rent under the mistaken belief they cannot be evicted during cold-weather months. He said tenants may receive an eviction notice if they are as little as seven days late in paying rent. He also said now is a bad time for low-income tenants to be evicted, because existing subsidized housing is filled to capacity.

N-3 acids in fish good for heart

CHICAGO--One serving of fatty fish per week can reduce the risk of cardiac arrest by 50-70 percent, according to an article in this week's issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association. The researchers found that an intake of 5.5 grams of n-3 fatty acids per month was associated with a 50-percent reduction in the risk of primary cardiac arrest. An 84-gram (three ounce) serving of cooked fresh salmon contains 1.49 grams of n-3 fatty acids. Four servings of salmon per month would provide 5.96 grams of n-3 fatty acids. One serving of albacore tuna contains 0.74 grams of n-3 acids.

N.H. bear season ends early

CONCORD, N.H.--New Hampshire's bear hunting season was cut short Monday. The Fish and Game Department said Friday it took the emergency step because too many female bears have been killed in the season that started Sept. 1 and was to end Dec. 3. The decimating of females and scarce food could affect the number and health of cubs being born to replenish the species, the agency said. As of Friday, a record 451 bears had been killed. Last month, the agency called for hunters to stop shooting bears voluntarily and closed some areas to hunting.

Nobel winner helps with homework

PHILLIPS--When Maggie Nerney needed some help with a science report, she went right to the top. She called a Nobel prize-winning chemist. "He was very nice," Nerney said of Mario Molina, an MIT professor. "He wanted to make sure I understood what he was telling me," said the 14-year-old student at Phillips Middle School. Molina and two other scientists won the Nobel Prize in chemistry on Oct. 11, for their work warning that gases once used in spray cans and other items are eating away Earth's ozone layer. Nerney said she spoke with the chemist for about 15 minutes, and later handed in a report about it.

Loon Mountain expansion upheld

FRANCONIA, N.H.--A federal judge says he will not block completion of a $20-million expansion of Loon Mountain ski area, ruling federal permits do not violate environmental laws. A lawsuit had sought to block the five-year expansion on 580 acres in the White Mountain National Forest. The suit was filed by Roland DuBois, an Environmental Protection Agency staff lawyer acting as a private citizen. He claimed the U.S. Forest Service violated environmental laws by authorizing the intermittent transfer of water from the East Branch of the Pemigewasset River to Loon Pond. The water is needed to help make snow for the expanded ski area. Critics had feared there would not be enough water for fish and wildlife, and that it would interfere with Lincoln's water supply. The EPA supported the expansion plan. DuBois can appeal the decision.

Responsible gun handling urged

With the opening of the Maine deer season, Gary Anderson, safety officer for the Maine Department of Fish and Wildlife, reminded all hunters of the trend to safer hunting seasons over the last two decades and urges "continued restraint and safe gun handling."

Anderson said that the average number of hunting fatalities in the 1950s was 11 per year, in the 1970s the average was four and, so far, in the 1990s, Maine has experienced three hunting fatalities over a five-year period. Anderson attributes Maine's markedly improving safety record to a combination of hunter orange clothing, mandatory hunter safety training, bucks-only laws and generally more responsible hunters.

The safety officer says that "nothing we or our legislature can do will ever take the place of positive game identification, making sure the background is clear and safe gun handling. Blaze orange and bucks-only laws can't take the place of common sense."

Anderson also reminded hunters that Maine's new hunting incident laws are tough and meant to be more easily enforced. "Our license revocations are long-term and often carry special stipulations before return of hunting privileges. Under some circumstances, license revocation may be for life," Anderson said.

The firearms season on deer opened for both residents and non-residents Monday, Oct. 30, and runs until Nov. 25. There is no Sunday hunting in Maine and the law requires that all deer hunters wear two articles of solid-colored hunter orange clothing.

From the

Bethel Town Office

As of Nov. 1, the overnight parking ban on all streets in Bethel is in effect. Parking vehicles on any street in the town for more than one hour between the hours of 12:01 a.m. and 6 a.m. each day during the period commencing Nov. 1 of each year and ending April 1 of the following year is prohibited except in cases of emergencies. As you are all aware, this time period represents our snowy weather season, at least the skiers in town would like to think so.

We are talking snow removal. It has been a long-standing policy in the Bethel area that the majority of snow removal be done at night. This regulation was developed in response to many concerns. The main concern is most certainly safety. Obviously, there are too many accidents waiting to happen during the hustle and bustle of daylight hours. The other concern is one of access. With the overnight parking ban in place, the roadsides are clear of vehicles.

With this in mind, I would like to remind everyone that the time of year has begun in which we must pay particularly close attention to the conditions of the road surfaces. Keeping the roads clear of parked vehicles at night will greatly help the town's road crew to do the best plowing job. Remind your friends, neighbors and guests of the parking ban to avoid parking tickets. Your cooperation with all parking bans and road postings will be greatly appreciated by the community. And please drive safely.

Bicentennial Committee notes:

Veterans' Show and Tell will be open from 3 to 8 p.m. today, Nov. 8, at the Crescent Park School Cafeteria. The public is invited, free of charge, to come and become more familiar with this important part of their town's history. Materials on display should include items from the Civil War era to present. Visitors may come and go at any time during the event.

This project by the Education Group of the Bethel Bicentennial Committee is open to any member of the community, past or present, who has souvenirs and stories to share. Anyone with materials to share, should bring them to the school between 1:30 and 2:15 p.m., or after 2:45 because of buses. The exhibits will be put up right after the school lunch hour, so that students may get a preview before they leave for home.

The title page of the commemorative booklet reads, "A project dedicated to the men and women who have put on uniforms to serve their country and to the men, women and children who served and serve on the homefront waiting for their return, in time of war and of peace."

From the Bethel Police log: Van chased through town

On Nov. 4 at 4 p.m. a Bethel police officer reported that a white truck and a maroon van were racing around the Mechanic St./Elm St./Main St. loop in excess of 50 m.p.h. The officer on duty stopped the van in the rear parking lot of the Bethel Foodliner. The driver was shaking and visibly upset. He said he was being chased by a white truck. He said the truck had chased him from Newry for no apparent reason, and the chase had continued all over Bethel at speeds in excess of 60-70 m.p.h. The driver said he kept going because he feared injury, since he didn't know what the other driver intended to do. The complainant said he would press charges if the other vehicle could be located. The vehicle was described as a white, mid-sized truck with a turquoise stripe, possibly a Dodge Dakota with a club cab. Its driver was described as a white male. There was also a blond female occupant.

Thursday, Nov. 2

At 10:55 p.m. a subject was stopped on Route 2 for going 73 in a 55 m.p.h. zone. The driver had a distinct odor of an intoxicating beverage on his breath. His eyes were very glossy, and his speech was slurred. He failed three field sobriety tests. A check of his license showed it was under suspension. The subject, Aaron Janus of Bethel, was given a balloon test and summonsed for operating after suspension and OUI. A sober driver was called to drive the vehicle.

Friday, Nov. 3

At 5:10 p.m. a Route 2 resident reported a possible accident involving a deer on Route 2 near the Bethel dump. On arrival police learned there was no accident and the deer was not injured, but that it was overly friendly and wouldn't get out of the road. The animal finally went off into the woods.

At 7:46 p.m. a Songo Pond Road resident reported a bear was at her door, trying to gain entry. She said she was locking the doors and going upstairs with her children. On arrival police found no sign of the bear, and two dogs at the residence appeared to be O.K. The Warden Service said they would contact the complainant in the morning.

Saturday, Nov. 4

At 7 a.m. police stood by while a Main St. resident served her tenants an eviction notice. The detail was completed without incident.

At 8 p.m. a subject was stopped on Route 5 for having no tail lights. A check of his license showed it was under suspension. The subject, Philip G. Smith of Bryant Pond, was placed under arrest for OAS and transported to the Oxford County Sheriff's office, where he was held in lieu of bail. The vehicle was towed.

At 9:55 p.m. a subject was stopped on Route 26 for failure to dim headlights. He was given three field sobriety tests and failed them. He was given the opportunity to take a chemical test, but refused. The subject, Robert C. Conit of Norwood, Mass., was arrested for OUI and transported to the Oxford County Sheriff's Office and held in lieu of bail. The vehicle was towed.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

crossing points to go. The other crossing, an elevated bridge at the end of Church Street, is currently in limbo -- stalled by lack of funding and handicapped-access questions.

Dresser asked Henley what the status of the bridge was.

"I keep stressing it when talking with funding sources," she replied, but the handicapped-access concerns were proving to be a major stumbling block.

The situation could be made worse, she said, by a railroad company campaign to raise the level of overpasses in order to accommodate stacked freight containers.

If the two Railroad Street crossing points are lost, the only remaining pedestrian access to the project would be the sidewalk extension from Main Street.

than originally proposed," Thompson said.

School committee chairman Pat Lewit said the main reason for the recommendation is the estimated cost of an appeal -- about $3,000.

Daniel Reich, attorney for Upton, said he has not yet been notified of a hearing on the damages amount. He said he would be working with Dapolito's attorney regarding a settlement.

Veterans' Day celebration

MORE ABOUT SONGO POND

Dr. Gilbert J. Rich
4800 North Prospect Avenue
Milwaukee, Wisconsin
October 31, 1933.

The Editor,
Oxford County Citizen,
Bethel, Maine.

Dear Sir:

I was interested to note that about a month ago you published an item regarding soundings in Songo Pond which showed a depth of 14 and 15 feet, in the vicinity of the "drop-off."

The suddenness with which the bottom of the Pond drops away at Steep Point has given rise to many rumors of great and unfathomable depths in the bay behind the point. Because of these, my father and I made soundings of the entire lake about twenty years ago. As the map which we made at that time is put away in my summer home, I must quote the figures from memory. Most of the Pond is 16 to 18 feet in depth. The bay behind Steep Point (the "drop-off") varies from 14 to 16 feet and is nowhere as deep as popular rumor made it. The deepest point on the lake is near the western shore, about 300 feet out from shore, where the white house of Almon T. Howe stood at that time. Here we found depths of from 22 to 24 feet.

Although the lake is not as deep as popular rumor made it, the lake is still a very beautiful and interesting place. I hope you will find this information of interest.

Yours very truly,
GILBERT J. RICH

GOULD DEFEATS

BRIDGTON, 24-2

Locals Finish Season With An Unbeaten Goal Line

By scoring a safety in the first period Bridgton scored the first points made against Gould Academy this season. Receiving the kick-off Bridgton marched right up the field to the Gould 3-yard line where a fumble was recovered by Dwyer. It took the local boys some time to figure out the Bridgton double wing back plays with reverses.

Stanley Allen played his best game of the year doing some fine blocking and proving himself outstanding on the defense. Bud Browne did some beautiful open field running while Fred Bartlett made a number of sensational runs.

The Bridgton game brought to a close Gould's second season of football and an interesting one. The game also ended the careers of some of Gould's finest football players. In the backfield the loss of the leading half back, Fred Bartlett, was a serious blow. In the line it will be hard to replace Dwyer at center. Gould's defense, however, have shown improvement and are expected to do well in the future. Gould's record for the season is 2-1-1.

"So I took the game was offered a job, and said, 'What I do now is an immediate impact working for the long-term. But that doesn't mean only in terms of brags authority through the western Maine."

"No trespassing. Driving up another to Lewis stared out the window at a pile of sympathized with the hunter. That's why people property, and hunters said.

Now he has two small children of his own, ages 2 and 4.

"If there's going to be something for my kids to hunt, it depends on what we do today," he said.

Lewis studied forest management for three and a half years at the University of Maine. But then he decided it was just too long to wait 20 or 30 years to see the results of what he might do in that line of work.

"So I took the game warden test, was offered a job, and took it," he said. "What I do now has more of an immediate impact. I'm still working for the long-term, too."

But that doesn't mean he thinks only in terms of brandishing his authority through the woods of western Maine.

"No trespassing"

Driving up another logging road, Lewis stared out the rain-streaked window at a pile of tires -- and sympathized with the hunters.

"That's why people post their property, and hunters suffer," he said.

Lewis said more landowners have been putting up "No trespassing" signs because of abuses such as tire dumping.

"Maine loses thousands of acres a year like that," he said.

Lewis said the warden service and fish and game clubs are working to convince property owners to change their postings to "No trespassing -- hunting by permission only," to spare the hunters but still keep the dumpers away.

"Over 90 percent of land in Maine is privately owned. If we lose it, there'll be no place left to hunt," he said. "It's a small segment of the population that causes hardship for everyone."

Back out on Route 2, Lewis spotted a car parked some distance off in an open area.

"This is a good place to drive deer. It's a small wooded area," Lewis said.

"Driving" deer, a practice in which several hunters move through the woods and herd deer toward another hunter or hunters, is illegal.

But that wasn't what was going on here. The cars belonged to railroad construction workers.

Lewis headed east. Suddenly, after meeting an oncoming pickup truck, he pulled off onto the shoulder of the road. He quickly cut across into a driveway to turn around.

"There was a deer in the back of that Vermont pickup truck," he said. "It looked like a lot of equipment in the back for one hunter." A little out of the ordinary, Lewis said, so he decided to check it.

He systematically passed the vehicles between him and the truck, finally coming up directly behind it. He turned on his blue dashboard light, and the pickup immediately pulled over.

A man who had been slumped over on the passenger side, asleep, sat up. Lewis checked his license, found it was his deer, and told him everything was O.K.

"You waked me up for that?" the man grumbled. They drove off.

"I didn't see the guy asleep," Lewis said as he climbed back into the truck.

By now, it was lunch time, and he was ready to head south to the Norway area.

The morning's tally? One dead deer, seven live hunters. Proof of Lewis' view on what a game warden really does.

"Some people think we spend most of our time with animals," he said. "It's more about people management than animal management."

View from the past

Eric Wight of Newry retired from the Warden Service ten years ago after 22 years. He said the public relations function of the warden service is an added role since his day.

"In the years I was a warden, we dealt mostly with hunters and

THE DUMPING OF TIRES AND OTHER TRASH on private property has led many property owners to put up "No Trespassing" signs -- reducing the amount of land available for hunters. The Maine Warden Service encourages landowners to go to "No Trespassing -- hunting by permission only" signs instead.

fishermen. Now there's more P.R. "There are a lot of nonresidents moving here and posting land. Their intentions are the best -- they think they're doing the right thing -- but it means less land for the hunters," he said.

Wight also said there is more emphasis today on prevention of game law violations.

"The warden service can gain some measure of effectiveness through education and voluntary compliance," he said.

A clear example of the positive results of that effort is the decrease in hunting deaths over the decades. "In one season in the early 1950s there were 19 hunting deaths," he said. "Now, it's down to about one."

Andover

by Karen McKay
The annual Country Christmas Fair will be held at the First Congregational Church CEB on Saturday, Nov. 11 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. There will be raffles, an assortment of crafts, and delicious homemade goodies.

The Telstar National Honor Society would like to invite all senior citizens of SAD44 to their 13th Annual Thanksgiving Dinner at the Telstar cafeteria on Sunday, Nov. 19 beginning at 12 noon. All area senior citizens are invited to enjoy the free meal, entertainment and door prizes. Members of the National Honor Society from Andover are Ian Richardson, M.J. Learned, Sarah Richardson, Fred Emerson, Justin Hutchins and Dan Emerson.

Andover Elementary has announced the Honor Roll for the first quarter: fourth-grade high honors: Lindsey Farrington and Mahala Thibodeau; honors: Steven Chenery and Peter Poor; fifth-grade honors: Freddy Bailey, Craig Angevine, Josh Messier, Jenna Poor, Katie Swasey and Shannon Fyberg; sixth-grade high honors: Michael Sabin and Ben Sabin; honors: Erika Davis and Christina Downs.

Buy your recording of Ross Swan's "ragtime On My Hands" this month. A donation will be made to the Andover Educational Fund with each purchase of the ragtime piano music, available on cassette or CD. This offer is good at Mill's Market only.

As of the weekend, 20 deer had been tagged by successful hunters at Mill's Market.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kerchner of Wellesley, Mass. were recently in town visiting for the weekend.

Myra Foster is in Stephens Memorial Hospital with pneumonia. June took her down on Oct. 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig Aube of Portland visited Mr. and Mrs. Neil Olson on Oct. 28 and 29.

Linda Olson and Carrie Aube were in North Conway, N.H., on Oct. 28. Kenny Mason, son of Ken Mason, got a deer on Nov. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nordahl went with Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Hastings to Celebration Barn Theater in South Paris on Oct. 27. They had to detour to Trap Corner and take the back road to Bryant Pond to get home.

As I am writing this, the snow is staying on the deck and the ground. Has been a wet day with rain and snow.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson
Hi readers. How do you like the time change? The dog thinks she's still on the old time when her supper time comes along. Right now, when it's 4 p.m. she thinks it is 5 p.m. and she nudges me to get her supper. She's very smart and usually gets her own way, but not always. She'll get adjusted gradually to the new time.

This past week Frances Grant and Eleanor Nelson put flowers and greens on an aunt's cemetery lot in Lovell and then had a nice lunch and visit with cousin Wilma Taylor and family in Center Lovell. She is doing quite well at home after being in the Norway Hospital and Norway Convalescent Center.

Did you people see the snowflakes on Monday, Oct. 30? If not, you must surely have seen the snow today. It snowed quite hard and stayed on the ground all white for quite a while but has now mostly melted off. I love this cooler weather. My friend at work used to hate the word snow, but I would say, "Oh, it's a good day for walkin'." It gives one more energy and she would shiver and pull her sweater up around her tighter.

Grandson Matthew Nelson made the Bridgton News' front-page headlines as first-place winner of the BN Halloween Essay Contest for Youths for scary stories. He sure is a good story teller, but the others were very good, also.

Monday, the grandchildren came out to carve jack-o-lanterns, and someone had stolen the pumpkins right off our front doorstep. If people will steal pumpkins, what will they do next. I feel sorry for them if they don't know any better than to do that.

Tuesday night, we had 21 Trick or Treaters. Some were very scary and some real pretty. I enjoyed seeing them and treating them.

Wednesday, the car had to go to the "car doctor's." Its radiator was ailing. I was hoping it wouldn't need a new one.

Thursday is Hunter's Supper at the East Stoneham Church, and I know of at least one apple pie that will be there. By the way, we do still have "Stoneham Remembered" books to sell, also more of the nice little recipe booklets with recipes of former Stoneham residents. There are some at the Town Office and some at the East Stoneham Store. I also have a few here. They are going, so if anyone wants one they better get it soon.

Well, the November desk calendar looks real clean right now but will soon fill up. Next week, Nov. 7, is voting, Nov. 8 Planning Board meeting, and Nov. 9 is East Stoneham Church meeting. See what I mean? On Nov. 3 and 4 I was in Bangor at the Maine Straw Poll. I'll report on that next week.

Fryeburg Academy Teachers' Annual Craft Fair

On Sunday, Nov. 19, the Fryeburg Academy Teachers Association will hold its annual Craft Fair at the Gibson Recreation Center on Bradley and Pine streets in Fryeburg from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. This is the 23rd year of this event, which benefits the F.A.T.A. scholarship fund. The award is given each June to a graduating senior who plans to pursue a career in teaching.

This year's fair promises to be as big as ever, with a large variety of items from crafts people traveling to Fryeburg from around the two-state area. At least a dozen crafters in knitting and sewing, wreath making, ceramics, hand-painted wooden items, decoys, candy, watercolors, wrought iron, photography, dolls, stuffed animals, stained glass and herbal products will be present, among others.

Refreshments will be sold at the fair and there will be a raffle of handmade items. Tickets for the raffle will be $1 per ticket and can be purchased from any F.A.T.A. member or at the door the day of the fair.

The drawing for the raffle items will be held at the Craft Fair at 3:30 p.m. VOICES, a service organization at the academy, will provide child care services this year so that the older folks can browse without worry.

Most of us were happy to have the rain but this morning, Oct. 31, is just beautiful. Our pond is like a mirror giving back all the shadows.

Dale and Marcia Mills from North Haven came to see me and their other aunt, Lucy Ridley, on Saturday.

David, Sally and Mary Holt joined their father, mother, Ann and me for dinner on Sunday.

Eleanor Inman is with her sister this week, and Milton, her husband, is at camp on a hunting trip.

The Holts had many callers over the weekend.

I had an interesting morning one day last week, when four others, a flock of geese and 16 ducks were out on the pond. I also had a cardinal, which I never have had before. How pretty he was!

Fay Holt, David, Robert and Mary were in Boston one day to see their eye doctor.

Louise Chapman has been helping Emma Billings get ready for winter by putting on her storm windows. Jimmy Record visited Emma one day last week.

Many children from town were at the Woodstock Elementary School's Halloween party on Friday night.

Herschel and Betty Abbott returned to their home this week to find a big tree had blown down beside their house. Luckily it didn't do any damage. Alan Chapman helped Herschel saw it up.

Tony Silver helped Robert and Albert Silver on Sunday and had dinner with his grandmother, Betty Silver, at Carol Winslow's home.

Sue Silver took Joelle, Errol, Kara Jacques and Bridget Billings trick or treating on Halloween night. We got to visit Winola Billings, Betty Silver and Robert and Ruby Silver.

Last week I received a call from Louise Andrews Newton. Louise called as she had not heard of the death of Maynard Cushman. Louise was also a classmate of mine. It was nice to hear from her as I hadn't for several years. We plan to keep in touch whenever we can from now on.

Laurene and Danielle Appleby have purchased a pair of steers. They are just small ones and will need to be trained as they get older.

Esther Davis attended a birthday party for Jerry Davis Shorey celebrating her 50th birthday. Jerry is the daughter of Velma and Gerald Davis, who lived in the area years past. The party was held at Hill Street Commons and was hosted by Edith Davis Deegan and Patricia Davis Tibbetts. The hall was attractively decorated and a polluck meal was enjoyed. Edith Deegan performed the MC honors and also arranged door prizes and games. Those attending were from Cumberland, Gorham, Oxford, Locke Mills, Hebron, Bryant Pond and South Woodstock. A period of silence was observed for those that couldn't be there. A birthday cake decorated in red and white and chocolate in flavor was served. Presents were opened and a wonderful time was had by all.

Lucky hunters I've heard about so far are Joshua Appleby, who shot a 104-pound doe, and Donald Jackson was also a lucky hunter this past week.

Allison Moore is celebrating her birthday this week. She will be two years old. Ian Monzo is also having a birthday in November.

Allison was one of the 34 trick-or-treaters who came to our home for goodies on Halloween night. I always enjoy seeing the kids and see how they've grown if I haven't seen them since the year before.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society reports that the society provides continuity with the past. Mary Billings is president of the society this year. Her son, Larry, is the curator. Annella Burnham is chairman of the Board of Trustees. Herschel Abbott will present the program at the November meeting. Mr. Billings also reports that the Historical Society values the best traditions civilization offers. Take an interest in organizations like the Historical Society.

Howdy, friends. This is Monday, the 30th day of October and what a cool day it is. It is quite a change from the shirt-sleeve weather of a week ago, but I suppose that we must expect it. I'm sure the ski areas are really pleased.

My old truck has to be both licensed and inspected in October, so I decided to take care of that last Monday afternoon. I had already replaced one tire on the truck and it passed inspection with no problems at all. I stopped in at the West Paris Town Office on my way home from Route 219 Garage and got it licensed for another year. I hardly knew where to go at the town office, as there seems to be construction of an addition there.

Bertha Benoit called on us for a short visit in the afternoon, and Mary Lovejoy came bringing back a container belonging to us.

That evening, we visited Richard Felt at his home in Bryant Pond.

Much of the day Tuesday was spent getting things together and doing the last-minute chores in preparation for our vacation, which was starting the next day.

We were up bright and early on Wednesday morning and left for the State Grange session in Ellsworth. We traveled to Lewiston and then took the turnpike part of the way so Peggy could do an errand in Waterville. We traveled through a lot of farming country and the scenery was beautiful all the way. After getting into Ellsworth, we made an inquiry and then found the Holiday Inn, where the State Grange session was to be held, and also the Eagle Lodge Motel, where we had a reservation.

We rested for a while, then went the short distance to the Holiday Inn, where the evening banquet and program was to be held. We expected that the banquet would be a grand affair, but what a letdown. We had eaten our lunch at about 11:30 a.m. and were ready for something to eat. The banquet, so called, started at 6:30 p.m., and by the time those sitting on our side of the room got to eat it was about 8 p.m. The food wasn't hot and the large variety of food, that we have seen at previous banquets, was certainly missing. When I pay $15 for a meal, I expect hot food, with a large variety of choices and an abundance to eat. There was in the vicinity of 300 people to be fed, but they knew well in advance just how many would be attending, all expecting to be fed.

The program following the supper was in charge of the State Grange Lecturer Dorothy Brown, from Oakland, and was enjoyed by one and all.

The main session started on Thursday morning with Grange work being conducted for much of the day. At the evening session, Robert Clark, member of the National Grange executive committee, was introduced and spoke of Grange work and also gave us much knowledge about the state of Washington, where Brother Clark was also a past master of the State Grange. We enjoyed his talk very much.

Next was the conferral on a few candidates of the Pomona Grange degree by Penobscot Pomona Grange No. 8. They did excellent degree work.

Much of the day on Friday was spent on the election of officers for the next two years, and taking care of the many Resolutions that are presented.

We always look forward to Friday evening, as this is when the Sixth or State Grange Degree is conferred. The State Grange officers conferred the Sixth Degree on 92 candidates, and the beautiful Rose Drill was performed by ladies from North Penobscot, Green Mountain and Hancock Pomona, and they did beautiful work. Each candidate was presented a pink rose as part of this degree.

The Youth and Junior Granges performed on Saturday forenoon. They did good work, and it is amazing what the little Junior Grange officers can do. In such a large hall, and before so many people, some of them are scared half to death, but they still do a fine job. Their leaders are to be congratulated for their effort. These young people are hopefully the Grange of the future, and we wish them well.

We left for home right after lunch on Saturday. It was sprinkling a little when we left for home. As we continued it began to rain harder and harder so that it was hard to see to drive. We also ran into a thunder shower with lightning and all. This lasted for many miles, but it rained all the way home. Yes, we had a good time, as we usually do, but how nice it was to be back home again, and to sleep in our own beds.

Yesterday, we spent the day getting back into the old routine and doing some work that had patiently waited for our return.

Doc Merrill, from South Paris, was up and had dinner with us. He brought along a book that had pictures taken many, many years ago in the surrounding towns. There were short write-ups with each picture, making it very interesting to look at.

Alan Lovejoy, from Oxford, visited the Lovejoys on High Street on Wednesday.

Saturday evening, Christina Morse of North Norway called at the Lovejoy home.

Thursday night, the Lovejoys attended the Deca Candle Lighting Service at Region Eleven.

Hope Lovejoy went to Massachusetts on Friday with the American Field Service. On Saturday she worked at the Chamber of Commerce in South Paris.

There will be a dance at Locke Mills Town Hall on Nov. 11, with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. This is old-time music with old-time fun.

Remember the Craft, Food, and White Elephant Sale to be held at West Paris Grange Hall on Nov. 11, from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. The food sale will include a cookie walk this time. You pay $1 for your can and fill it with cookies of your choice. Tables can be rented for $3 each. To reserve your table, call Peggy Blake at 674-3872. We have ordered good weather for that day and will expect to see you at the sale. Bring your neighbors and friends.

CLOTHING WALK IN

On Saturday, Nov. 11, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., anyone may "walk in" to the Agnes Gray School gym, where the West Paris branch of Oxford Bank and Trust, a division of Peoples Heritage Bank, will join the School Volunteers in giving away winter outdoorwear and miscellaneous winter sports equipment. Anyone with items to donate may drop them at the West Paris branch of Oxford Bank and Trust anytime during regular banking hours.

Boys' Varsity Soccer

MAISAD Tournament
Gould 2, Hebron 1

Nov. 5—Gould has painful memories of losing to Hebron Academy twice during the regular season, so when the Lumberjacks scored early in the first half things looked bleak for the Huskies. Gould captain Jeremy Vail shot and scored shortly before half-time, giving new life to the Husky offense. The second half remained scoreless until Gould senior Lanny Popoola booted one past the Hebron goalkeeper with 15 minutes remaining in the game. The goal went unmatched and placed the Huskies in the finals against Kents Hill.

Kents Hill 2, Gould 1

Nov. 5—Jeremy Vail scored another goal in the finals, but Kents Hill scored to send the game into overtime. The first five minute "sudden victory" overtime went scoreless. Kents Hill, the fourth-ranked team in the four school tournament, scored one minute into the second overtime, earning the title.

Girls' Varsity Soccer

Hyde 8, Gould 1

Nov. 1—Ninth-grader Megan Flaherty scored a solo shot for Gould during an extremely muddy game at Hyde School. The loss denied Gould a bid in the MAISAD Tournament, thus ending the Huskies' 1995 season.

Boys' J.V. Soccer

Gould 1, Hyde 0

Nov. 1—Senior Dave Hultjack scored from the wing to carry Gould over Hyde School. Gould finished an outstanding season with a near perfect 11-0-1 record and entered the MAISAD Tournament with a number one position.

MAISAD Tournament
Gould 8, Kents Hill 0

Nov. 5—Gould dominated the field in the first game of the MAISAD Tournament, beating fourth-ranked Kents Hill.

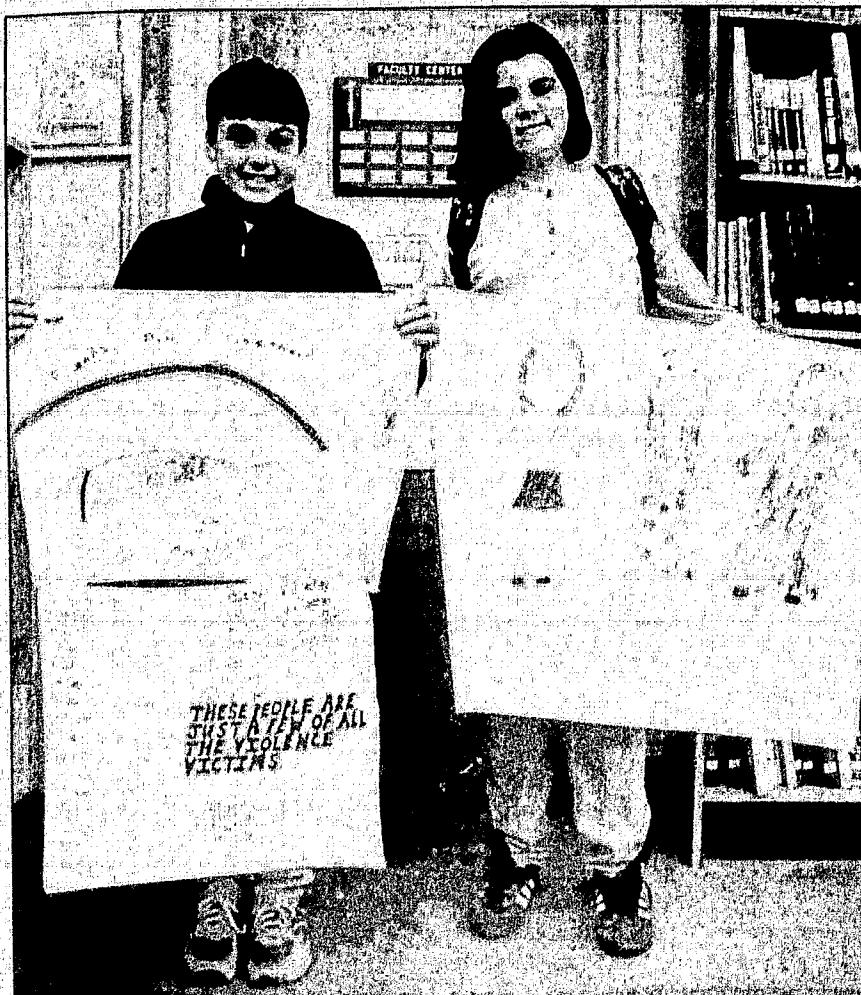

Gould 7, Hebron 0

Nov. 5—Gould clinched the Independent School League title and was crowned Tournament Champions by beating Hebron in the final. Gould has captured three junior varsity championships and titles in as many years.

Varsity Field Hockey

MAISAD Tournament
Gould 3, Kents Hill 0

Nov. 1—Bethel's Marcy LaVallee, Meredith Mason, and Amanda Sysko each scored a goal as the first-ranked Huskies beat fourth-ranked Kents Hill in the first round of the tournament. The win sent Gould to play number two Hebron Academy in the finals.

WEEK WITHOUT VIOLENCE—Sixth-grader Abigail Gilbert (right) was the winner of a "Week without Violence" poster contest at Telstar Middle School recently. Getting an honorable mention was Joel Doyon. Gilbert's first prize was a Pat's Pizza.

Hebron 3, Gould 2 (OT)

Nov. 1—In their third meeting in the 1995 season, Gould and Hebron battled to a 2-2 tie in regulation play sending the game into overtime -- the same result as in the two previous games. Unlike the earlier games, however, Hebron scored on a penalty corner in the second overtime to win the tournament. Gould remains MAISAD League champions for the second consecutive year.

BASKETBALL PASSES

The Telstar Athletic Boosters will be selling season passes for the 1995-96 basketball season. These passes entitle holders to attend all the boys' and girls' home games, beginning on Dec. 11. The prices are: students, $10; adults, $20; family, $30. The passes will be on sale until Dec. 22 through the Boosters Club.

Information on purchases: contact Sarah Craig at 824-2777. Tickets can be picked up and paid for at the door.

Halloween activities were the focus of this past week. The Halloween Party in the gym was its usual success. All children who competed in the costume contest received a small prize, and two from each grade level received a larger prize. I don't have the list of all the top winners, but caveman, Bobby Pilgrim, and Honeybee, Sabrina Martin won for the sixth-grade. Vampire, Michael Spring and Witch, Sienna Tinsley won for the fifth-grade level.

Mrs. Mullen reported that the field trip for the kindergarten and first-grade to Chipman Farms was a huge success. The children learned all kinds of information about green-houses and vegetables. They each received a pumpkin and an ear of popping corn. They have to let the ear dry until Christmas, and then will be able to pop it. Halloween spiders were used in math to find out about the combinations of eight.

The Jack-o-lanterns in grade two were not only decorated, but very educational as well. The children guessed the weight of four pumpkins, and then lined them up from heaviest to lightest. They measured, estimated and worked together to carve them out. Kern Haney is the star of the week. His classmates like Kern for many reasons. They say he plays with everyone and is good at sharing. Second-grade homework involves parents reading with their children, talking about the story, and writing and drawing about the story. One booksheet a week is due to be returned to Mrs. Loper.

Mrs. Merrill's third-graders are learning standard measurement. Later on in the year they will learn about metric measurement. Tristan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abbott, provided the class with some exciting activities for Halloween. Everyone sends them a big thank you. There are third-grade super brains with their six-grade buddies.

The two fourth grades are reading a story, "Strange Creatures that Really Lived." They are counting money and learning to make change in math. They are continuing with their Maine studies.

Grades four, five and six will be participating in this year's first district math contest on Nov. 9. This contest is made up of six problems to be solved individually. They are not easy, do require some heavy thinking, but can be solved.

Ranks closed on Nov. 3. Progress reports will be going home on Nov. 14. Conference slips have gone home to give parents a chance to indicate the best time for them to come in. Teachers will be getting together to coordinate times for parents with more than one child in the school. Parent conferences will be held on Monday, Nov. 20.

There will be girls' basketball sign-ups and first practice on Friday, Nov. 10, for fifth- and sixth-grade girls.

The volunteer team sends out thanks to our volunteer crossing guards. Three days of each week in October were covered because of Charlene Herrick, Karen Bailey and Michele Marois. All five days of each week will be covered in November. Thanks go to Charlene Herrick, Lynda Skinner, Lisa Farrar, Michele Marois and Debbie Kangas. We would like to have a different crew each month. We need a crossing guard from 8:30 a.m. to 8:55 a.m. If we don't contact you, and you have the time to volunteer, please give us a call at school. It doesn't have to be a parent.

My thanks go out to people who tell me they read this column. It keeps me motivated to find the time to write. See you next week.

DAVID CLEMENTS

CLEMENTS EARNS DEGREE

David Clements, son of Nicholas and Marta Clements of South Woodstock, has received his Doctor of Philosophy in physics from the University of Delaware and the Bartol Research Institute. The dissertation was written on and entitled "Hydrogen and Deuterium in the Cosmic Ray Flux."

Clements graduated from Telstar Regional High School and received his bachelor's degree from Bowdoin College. Following his graduation from Bowdoin, he spent two years in Antarctica working for the Bartol Research Institute. Data for his current research was gathered in Antarctica and during balloon launches in Canada.

Clements currently resides in Birmingham, Ala., with his wife, Audrey Lazenby, M.D., and their daughter Carolyn.

HARRIS ELLIOTT HATHAWAY CELEBRATES HIS 90TH

Harris Elliott Hathaway observed his 90th birthday on Oct. 15, 1995. Four generations of family and friends greeted him at the Old County Road home where he has lived for 82 years.

Born in that neighborhood on Oct. 16, 1905, Mr. Hathaway attended the "Whitman District" school--the first school in Woodstock. A part of the school houses his blacksmith's shop.

In 1928 Mr. Hathaway married the former Edith Andrews. They have three children: Burton, who lives nearby, Phyllis (Mrs. Reynold Jordan, Waterford), and Harriett (Mrs. Lawrence Estes, S. Paris). There are 10 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Flowers from Norway Lodge No. 16 IOOF graced the guestbook table. Mr. Hathaway has been an active Odd Fellow over 50 years, and a Franklin Grange member over 70 years, where he was Secretary for 24 years.

The cake was decorated to depict interests and vocations over the decades. A horse and carriage illustrated modes of transportation differences as well signifying how he drove Old County Road students to Woodstock High School when he attended there. Later, he drove a van to transport the children to Bryant Pond school. His interest in education never diminished. He served on the School Board for 24 years.

There were 50 years of U.S. Postal Service work -- first as a substitute and finally as a rural route carrier. Interspersed were probably, foremost, his farm and dairy business, sawmill, and Christmas tree sales. He is still well known for the quality and full-size lumber used by him and sold to others. Some of the first Ski homes on Mt. Abram were built by Hathaway & Son.

Forced to retire in 1983 due to health, Mr. Hathaway has continued to be active by mowing his extensive lawns and cutting field edges for his woodstove. He enjoys TV game shows, football games, and reading. He and Mrs. Hathaway have visited former presidents' homes and war memorials in every state this side of the Mississippi River.

Prior to the party, Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway enjoyed dinner at Goldstreet in Norway as guests of two nephews and their wives, the John W. Hathaways of Littleton, Mass., and the Warren Hathaways of Harvard, Mass. Also with them were Burton, son; Vance Jordan, grandson; and grand-nephew Leslie Hathaway, wife Lynn and sons, Chris and Mark of Westport, Mass.

Student plays at Gould

Swapping costumes, switching sets, and hitting the lights in minutes flat, the Gould Academy Student Players will present "The Ledge" and "The Miner's Daughter" on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 10 and 11. Directed by drama coach Douglas Alford, the shows include nine actors and actresses, six of whom will perform in both plays.

A comedy with an absurd twist, "The Ledge" focuses on Reginald Morton Peabody, a young man preparing to jump from the ledge of a high-rise office building. Played by junior Mike Rose, Peabody has concluded that his life is simply not exciting enough to live. In the midst of his anger, the lonely Peabody finds himself in several preposterous conversations with various characters, including an acrophobic policeman played by Dave Bennett '96, a conceited attorney played by Nathanael Thibodeau '98, and an ornery window washer played by Amber MacKenzie '96.

Written by Stephanie S. Tolan, "The Ledge" also features Jennifer Jacques '99 as Daphne Doule, Matt Walker '97 as Ned Armstrong, Lauren Withers '98 as Sister Mary Mary, and Amy Iskandar '99 as the Army Officer.

Following "The Ledge," the players will perform Schubert Fendrich's "The Miner's Daughter." Though written in 1961, "The Miner's Daughter" is described by Alford as a "classic melodrama," of the genre popular in the U.S. in the late 1800s. The characters include a hero, a heroine, and, of course, a villain dressed in black.

Alford noted that while the players are serious about their roles, "The Miner's Daughter" provides the Gould Players with the opportunity to have fun with their outrageous roles. "The students have a great time playing these cartoonish characters," said Alford.

The audience also has a chance to become involved in the production. "In the American melodrama there is a great deal of audience participation," remarked Alford. "It's totally encouraged." This participation includes cheering the hero and booing the villain, said Alford.

This weekend's performances of "The Miner's Daughter" by the Gould Players is a bit of a "dress rehearsal" for another performance. According to Alford, Gould is scheduled to present "The Miner's Daughter" next year during Bethel's bicentennial celebration. The play will join several other shows at the Odeon Hall during an 1890s theater night.

"The Ledge" and "The Miner's Daughter" will be performed in Bingham Auditorium at Gould Academy on Friday and Saturday at 7:30 p.m. There will be a brief intermission between plays. Admission is free and open to the public.

Proposed Flood Elevation Determinations for the Town of Bethel, Oxford County, Maine

AGENCY: Federal Emergency
Management Agency
ACTION: Proposed Rule

SUMMARY:

Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed base (1% annual chance) flood elevations shown in your community's preliminary Flood Insurance Study and Flood Insurance Rate Map. The base flood elevations are the basis for the floodplain management measures that the community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).

DATES:

The period for comment will be ninety (90) days following the second publication of this proposed rule in a newspaper of local circulation in the community.

ADDRESSES:

Study and maps showing the proposed base flood elevations and their delineation are available for review at the Bethel Town Hall, 19 Main Street, Bethel, Maine.

Send Comments To:
Mr. Robert Chadbourne
Chairman of the Board of Selectmen
for the Town of Bethel
P.O. Box 108
Bethel, Maine 04217

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION

CONTACT:
Michael K. Buckley, P.E., Chief
Hazard Identification Branch
Mitigation Directorate
Federal Emergency Management Agency
Washington, DC 20472
(202) 646-2765

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

The Federal Emergency Management Agency gives notice of the proposed determinations of base flood elevations, in accordance with Section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (Pub. L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which added Section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 (Pub. L. 90-448)), 42 U.S.C. 4001-4218, and 44 CFR 67.4(a).

These elevations, together with the flood plain management measures required by Section 60.3 of the program regulations, are the minimum that are required. They should not be construed to mean the community must change any existing ordinances that are more stringent in their floodplain management requirements. The community may at any time enact stricter requirements on its own, or pursuant to policies established by other Federal, State, or regional entities. These proposed elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for the new buildings and their contents.

Pursuant to the provisions of 5 USC 605(b), the Administrator, to whom authority has been delegated by the Director, Federal Emergency Management Agency, hereby certifies that the proposed flood elevation determinations, if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. A flood elevation determination under Section 1363 forms the basis for new local ordinances, which, if adopted by a local community, will govern future construction within the floodplain area. The elevation determinations, however, impose no restriction unless and until the local community voluntarily adopts floodplain ordinances in accordance with these elevations. Even if ordinances are adopted in compliance with Federal standards, the elevations prescribe how high to build in the floodplain and do not prohibit development. Thus, this action only forms the basis for future local actions. It imposed no new requirement, of itself it has no economic impact.

Lessees and owners of real property in the Town of Bethel, are encouraged to review the preliminary Flood Insurance Study and Flood Insurance Rate Map available at the address cited above. Proposed base flood elevations along flood sources studied in detail are shown on the flood profiles in the study. The flood sources studied in detail are:

Source of Flooding	Range of Base Flood Elevations #Depth in feet above ground. *Elevation in feet (NGVD)
Androscoggin River	*628 *627 *665 *660

SIGN COMMITTEE
SEEKING INTERESTED MEMBERS

The Bethel Planning Board is seeking interested persons who would be willing to serve with the present Sign Ordinance Committee as they deliberate the regulation of the blue state directional signs.

The Sign Ordinance Committee at its last meeting requested additional membership, especially from the business community, as it continues to discuss the best solution to protect business and avoid the sign litter on routes 26, 5, and 2.

Although the blue directional signs are regulated by the state at this time it is possible for the town to take control over these signs. Anyone interested in either serving or attending the meetings should call the Town Office at 824-2669.

CHARLES M. AUSTIN

Charles M. Austin, a former resident of Bethel and Lewiston, died Wednesday, Oct. 4, 1995, at his home in Orlando, Fla., where he had lived for the past 10 years.

He was born in Norway on June 12, 1909, son of Henry P. and Aya Belle Hebbard Austin. His parents moved to Bethel in 1909, where Henry Austin became employed by the Bethel Light Company from 1909 to 1925 and then by the Central Maine Power Company until his death on March 20, 1940.

Mr. Austin attended Bethel public schools and graduated from Gould Academy in 1927. He married Cora Emma Martin on Sept. 21, 1940, in Portland. She died Sept. 1, 1991.

He held Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance for several years. During World War II he became supervisor of Time Keepers at the Portland Ship Yard. The time keepers monitored the time worked on the various aspects of ship construction. Later he and a co-worker formed the AC Electric Company, specializing in repair of electric motors. They were located in Auburn.

He was a life member of the Bethel Historical Society.

He is survived by a brother, J. Maynard Austin of Bennington, Vt., and a niece and nephew.

At Mr. Austin's request he was cremated at an Orlando, Fla., funeral home and his ashes shipped to Maine for burial adjacent to his wife's in the Martin cemetery lot in the Woodland Cemetery in Westbrook.

FLORENCE M. MARTIN

Miss Florence M. Martin, 85, of the Northwest Bethel Road, died early Saturday morning, Nov. 4, 1995.

Miss Martin was born in Portland, daughter of the late Edward and Elizabeth Curtis Martin, and attended Portland area schools. She was employed at the Mid-Central and Maine Fisheries for nearly a half century, until her retirement eight years ago. She attended the Peoples Methodist Church of Portland.

She had resided in Waterboro for many years, but eight years ago established her home in Bethel with her close companion, Delores Williams.

Funeral services were held at the Greenleaf Funeral Home, Bethel, on Monday, Nov. 6, 1995 at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Henry Nickerson officiating. Interment was in Pine Grove Cemetery, South Waterboro. Donations in her memory may be made to: Jackson Laboratories (Diabetes Research Dept.), Bar Harbor, ME 04609.

Card of Thanks

Webster's dictionary does not contain enough words to describe our gratitude to all of the 22 friends who appeared at our residence and processed 8 cord of firewood in approx. 2 1/2 hours. Also thank you to the "donut lady". To those who raked and hauled away the leaves, too! To all of those who gave me support and kept me going while Ed was in ICU and during and after his return home by ambulance; the meals, flowers, fruit, cards & visits; to those gathering & assembling all of the necessary hospital equipment so that I may continue to care for Ed while he is recovering.

It is reassuring to know we have many more friends than we ever realized.

Thank you very much for your support, Brenda and Robert for your caring through the years and to all my very close friendships, you know who you are. You are ALL very special in my heart. Thanks.

Lillian

Card of Thanks

Another chapter in my life comes to a close and a new one begins. With it I will take fond memories of the wonderful friends I have made over the past 22 years. A special thanks to Cheryl Angevine for bringing my friends together in her home. Thanks to all who came, and those who couldn't make it but sent cards. It meant a lot to me to see you all there. Thanks to Lillian and Harry for your support, Brenda and Robert for your caring through the years and to all my very close friendships, you know who you are. You are ALL very special in my heart. Thanks.

Lillian
